CHICAGO UNIVERSITY. SECOND DAY.

COTTAGE GROVE.

DEDICATION OF THE NEW BUILDINGS AT

The present week witnesses the first of a series of anniversaries each year, to be more noteworthy perhaps, as the lapse of such periods shall add to material growth and increase of its sphere of osefulness, but never to be fraught with more interest than whep, for the first time, the friends of the noble enterprise which has the now permanent form of the University of Chicago, at Hyde Park, assemble in anniversary exercises for congratulation and thankfulness at the thus far completion of their labors.

It has been achieved in a period of unparalleled commercial depression and disaster, and the beautiful structure that now forms a striking ornament of our southern subarbs, as its furres rise above the tres-tops of Gottage. Grove, is thus all the more creditable to the funders and festorers of the undertaking. It will be remembered that it owes its establishment to the Baptist denomination of the Northwest, who control—though they do not exclusively comprise—the Board of Regents, but by whom it has never been intended and pushed as a sectarian enterprise. Some two or three years since, the accepted offer of the acres of land in Cottage Grove, five miles south of the Court House, by Hon. S. A. Donglas, fixed for that beautiful locality the site of the institution,, than which none finer could be found. It is near the Lake Shore, from which it is severed only by a noble grove of cakes, which extered only by a noble grove of force, which is the second of the control of the provention of the lake Shore, from which it is severed only by a noble grove of force where the force of the near the Lake Shore, from which it is severed only by a noble grove of oaks, which extend westward from the lake at this point as far as the limit of the University grounds. It is connected with the city by what will be one of our finest thoroughfares—the "Bloomingdale Road" of Chicago—along which the horts-cars, through the whole extent, are giving ease of secess to the heart of our business, and still more nearly is it connected with Cheago by the city itself, whose countless homes are extending southward and springing up in, around, and indeed far sexpanse poolitize's abbress:

I believe all judges who hare seen it have admitted that the mechanical execution of it, is the best specimen of stone work of its kind that has ever been done in Chicago, and that the carpenter and joiner work is in no re-spect inferior. I believe also that good judges of what colleges ought to be, consent that in the convenience of its internal arrangement, so far as the building has progressed, it surpasses any college building in the United States. What we propose to do may be seen by this drawing. I am sorty to say that it is only a picture instead of a real structure of massive stone wall, like this we are now in. I cannot but think that many of my fellow citizens who are here to-day, the old residents and business men of Chicago, when they look upon this beautiful structure and see how noble an ornament of the city it would be, will resolve with me that no long time is it connected with Cheago by the city itself, whose countless homes are extending southward and springing up in, around, and indeed far beyond Cottage Grove, once the Ultima Thule of suburban residence. This entire vicinity is already teeming with interest and attraction, and less than five years hence will see it filled with pleasant homes.

The opening exercises of the Commencement of the University took place at the First Baptist Baptist Church on Wednesday evening, as already noticed in our last issue. The exercises of yesterday were especially in dedication of the new building, at Cottage Grove, where, at the hour of 11 A. M., a very numerous attendance of gentlemen and ladies had found their way by the horse cars, by private conveyance, and by the adjacent station of Illinois Central Tailroad.

The first place of assembling was in the chapel of the University, a large room in the second story of the present structure—which may serve for the present the purposes of the University, but which never having been designed to hold its friends, completely failed to do so yesterday. The exercises were opened with prayer by Rev. Mr. Spencer, Rev. President of the Executive Committee, as well as the peaced all. In the accumulation of wealth by the products of the earth, or by its minute and the present structure—which may serve for the present the purposes of the University, but which never having been designed to hold its friends, completely failed to do so yesterday. The exercises were opened with prayer by Rev. Mr. Spencer, Rev. President of the Executive Committee, presented by Wm. Jones, Esq., of this city, President of that Committee. The report we present entire as follows:

Under this they made a progress. We are to-day but advancing with them, they our masters, while we study sculpture, Poetry, and Painting, in the school of Athens as they did. But they had no idea of Freedom. Look at the death of Socrates, condemned for exercise of individual opioion and how striking the proof of the subserviency of toat age, is the fact that the great philosopher himself believed his life justify fortified to the state, and drank the hemlock, refusing to escape when the way was offered him.

The Roman order of civilization comes next. It was its element to teach the world to respect law. The individual was a mere fraction, no unit or integer. He had no empire of his own. He was the slare of the majority, and whether the Republic, the Senate or the Emperor ruled, their law and will was his.

Not so our civilization. It is based on the rights of man, rigit that government does not invade nor take away. This clement grows out of the new commandment of love. Our system of government rests on the rights of the individual. Constitutions are made to limit and check the power of Government. This idea was crowded out of Gurpe. A new world was

We are conscious that our hasty report does little justice to the eloquent and patriotic address of the distinguished Senator, but it will imperfectly serve to give the main themes touched upon.

At the close of the address, after the applause which followed it, and which indeed had more than once interrupted it, had passed off, Rev. President Burroughs announced a collation spread in the dining hall of the University which should next receive the attention of the andience. The ensuing bour or two were spent in such discussion; and seldom hare we seen a more inviting field. The caferers for the occasion did themselves infinite credit, and there finish which is more usual. Certainly, for public buildings, at least, one glance at the University buildings, in comparison with the highly dressed style of finish elsewhere generally adopted, would, with many, at once decide the question in favor of the former. The structure, as at present finished, is less than one-third of the prospective University buildings, which, when they stand completed will, in our opinion, be a dangerous if not triumphant rival in point of superior and commanding beauty and fitness of design, of any of the structures of like class in the country. The present building gives the extreme of the western wing, an edifice five stories high sixty-five feet deep by forty-five feet wide. Adjoining this on the case is a portion of the contro of the future bailding, three stories in height. temporarily, as ultimately to be elsewhere located and more amply accommodated in that portion of the Institution yet to be built. We were particularly struck with the skill in designing, and good taste is furnishing the students' rooms, which are made commodious, convenient, well ventilated, and handsomely furnished, some of them. This latter is the work of the ladies of our State, a work in which we hid them God apeed. There is a fitness and wisdom in securing thus for the hanuts of learning, and the homes of student life, the attractions which please the eye and elevate the taste. The canse of evil has long enough had the monopoly of the beautiful. If a saloen is to be built, a gambling hell, or a haunt of vice, the proprietors appreciate and covet the enticing effects of elegance of decoration and rich appointments. No less can these latter subserve, if sought within proper restrictions, the better purposes which underlie such enterprises as are to make student life, at the Chicago University attractive as well as valuable.

The table exercises having been concluded, and the audience being filled with good viands and good humor, an adjournment was had to the grove, where for two hours a feast of reason ruled the occasion. We regrest that our limits.

THE PAPAL STATES.

The Catholic journals of the United State are pleading with great earnestness for the part of any other system of governmental rule They recognize it as the outgrowth and appli-cation of the faith which they profess. To hem it is not the work of man, but an ordi nation of the Almighty. Its destruction would be a blow to Catholicism that would make it eel again-an act of vandelism and infidelity Phat would send a pang to every Christian heart. Rome is the centre and home of the Pa pal power. Therethe tendencies of the faith up on which it is built up have been unrestrai Development of all that is good in Catholicism when applied to affairs of State, has not been repressed. Restraint of its evil influences in uprooting civil liberty, fostering ignorance and ty constantly before it, aided by the reveren and respect of the world, and by the money and prayers of all the faithful, Catholicism in Rome has worked out the problem upon which ernment which the Western Banner would no serve, and which is at once the pride and ad-

Some of these estimates are made up at or about the time of harrest, some afterwest, and agreements the agreement of the secretary and the sec neighbors. Some of these estimates are made up at or about he time of harrest, some after-wards, and not unfrequently they are made by cry knowing individuals even before the seed is properly in the ground. As a general thing, it is guess work of the wildest species, as their figures show—varying from ten to one hundred million bushels per crop. The latest on record is that issued by the Courier and Engairer of The production of Wheat in the in the sev

The above estimates of the crops are profe 18,000,000 bushels, and that of 1858 at 14,500 000. Left over ...... 4,180,040 7,866,577 The Courier tal Enquirer estimates the consamption at five bushels per head—by which, at 1,500,000 of a population, Illinois, in the year 1857-8 required 7,500,000 bushels; while we had, according to the above estimate only a trifle over 4,000,000 bushels left over, after taking out the exports from Chicago, not to speak of what we sent down the Mississippi, from St. Louis, niney, and other cities on that river. On the ther hand, with regard to the crop of 1858, set och at fault; for our surplus, after taking out about eleves mosths exports, is seven and a half million bushels—just about enough to feed us. The truth is, both estimates are too low, and entirely out of proportion—the crop of 1858 was not over half as large as that of 1857. By what process of reasoning the crop of 1859 has been come by we are not aware; but there vill be one-ninth larger than that of 1857. NEW SCHOOL PRESERVEDIANISM IN MISSOURI.

Most of our readers will remember, that the Synod of the N. S. Presbyterian Church of the State of Missouri, formally withdrew from all connection with the General Assembly after the action of that body last year at Cleveland on the subject of slavery. The Synod was com-posed of some thirty churches.

While the action of the majority was for the time conclusive, it was not in accor Presbyterian churches of that State. It was found by mutual conference and correspondence that they desired to adhere to the Assembly,

The Kansas War Debt.

A commission appointed by the Kansas Legislature has been investigating the claims for damages incurred during the disturbances of 1855-56. A correspondent of the Boston Traveller gives the following summary of the result, which has been reported to the Constitutional Convention:

VALLEY OF THE MISSOURI.

(Correspondence of the Free and Tribute.)
Parkruz, Mo., July II, 1899.
In my last, we spoke of the importance of the Missouri Valley to Chicago; since, through the Chicago, Burkington and Quincy Railroad, and the Hannibal and St. Joseph Railroad, (which is being built to connect that road with the Kansas eing built to connect that road with the Kansas om your city in twenty-four hours. St. Louis has expended millions to reach the central, fer-tile section of this great valley. She had to overcome near 200 miles of broken country, comparatively poor, and unimportant, and our Pacific Railroad now lacks 125 miles of the mouth of the Kansas. But she worked with a will, worthy a great city, and a great prize. To Chicago, opens a level plain; and from thence down the Lakes and the ship canals and the St. Lawrence, we have a direct line to Europe, or we can go over our great lines of transportation to the Atlantic seaboard. No finer field was ever opened for enterprise than in the mild and fertile southwest. Our wheat crop just gathered as been fair, but too small a breadth was sown he corn crop bids fair to be the heaviest ever grown. We would call the attention of pork packers to this fact, as there will probably be a large surplus of pork. Twenty-five thousand ement has yet been made in this line. In hort, there are good openings for every branch of business, and this is a favorable time to get a central section of the Missouri valley; we know of no country that equals it, either in quantity or quality. Our light, dry soils, a fine climate, is more favorable to the growth of hemp, and produces a finer limit than Keutucky, just about Leaington. Experiments have been made with the Chinese hemp, and the yield has been one fourth larger. This will open a new era in hemp culture. It better machines for cutting and breaking were invented, and some better process of rotting were adopted, we could come into competition with Russia in the markets of the world. Will some of your world-renowed inventors try their skill on the hemp break? It would be to hemp what the cotton gin is to cotton. I have carefully compared the profits of cotton growing in Texas with hemp growing in Missouri, and find the balance in favor of the hemp grower. And over and above this they will raise vegetables, fruits, grain and stocks, sufficient for their own ne and a fuith bisheig of seed.

attention from other crops. Most of the work, after being head, can be done in wet weather. The white oak lands of N. E. Missouri, are unsurpassed in the production of tobacco. The railroad facilities for transporting this crop to market, will greatly increase its production. Winter What's is mostly sown in this section. If well put in, it is seldom winter-killed, but liable to rust, if harvest is preceded by wet weather. Our wheat usually ranks A No. 1 in the St. Louis market. The ordinary yield is from fifteen to thirty bushels to the acre. In corn, we must carry off the plain sgainst the world—Egypt not excepted. One glance now at the corn-fields on the Missouri and Kansas Rivers would courince even the most skeptical.

and that both ministers and people were opposed to the extension and the perpetuity of slavery.

These facts were presented in a very impressive manner by Rev. Mr. Whipple, of Lagrange, Mo., at the last Wednesday evening prayermeeting of the Second Presbyterian church of this city. He believed that with proper sympathy and encouragement a considerable number of the N. S. Presbyterian churches of that State would adhere to the Assembly, and be found doing good service in the efforts which were in progress to make Missouri a free State. It is in its mineral and agricultural resources one of the richest States in the Union, and with the energies of intelligent freemen to develop these resources, Missouri must soon occupy a leading resources, Missouri must soon occupy a leading resources, Missouri must soon occupy a leading contract of the contract of the graph were better understood, this middle of blight, however, about the list of July, if the weather is wet. On the other hand, the "nineity days checks" of Matteson notoriety, after having once been redeemed in full by the State and put into Matteson's hands, were feloniously abstracted from their place of safe keeping by somebody (*) and fraudulently funded by Matteson himself, who can give no satisfactory explanation of the manner in which he came by them, and as to which the public can only infer.

2d. The Macalister and Stebbins bondholders have not received one cent from the State, either of principal or interest, on account of their funding operation, and will not receive anything until the Legislature settles the amount which is right and proper to be paid them.

On the other hand, Gov. Matteson, as the books in the Auditor's office show, gouged the State to the time of $225,000 principal and interest, on account of his canal scrip operation. The Courrier Mercantile, of Genoa, and the Paris Government paper, Patrie, give the following list of killed and wounded by the Swis burglars at Perugia:

It has been hinted to me that the Austrian Government may, per-haps, try to play off the emissippied peasants against their former task-masters, but any such attempt would be a total failure. Hungary is, to all intents and purposes, an aristocratic country, and the Austrian Government cannot hope to regain its influence there unless it can manage to win the upper classes of the people. F. M. S., and Professor Thompson, L. L. D., in connection with Mr. C. L. Varley (the managing electrician of the Electric Telegraph Company, of Lothbury, and now the consulting electrician of the Atlantic Company,) have agreed to form a Committee to advise with the different and to decide for them with the aid of such other seientific men as the Board may think proper to call in as to all the details of the next cable, and as to the form of he external covering, internal coudactor, and extent of insulation. When these details are determined on, and the cable most suited for Atlantic depths shall have been settled by means of the valuable data placed, at the Board's disposal from the archives of the Company, experiments as to submersion wilf take place, and any points not exactly leared up at the present moment will be most carefully decided by appeals to actual experiment.

The great point upon which hung all the heaviest weight of indecision as to the possibility of this enterprise has been decided favorably. The cable has been lead to decide favorably. The cable has been lead, messages have passed day by day for a month between England and America. Regiments have been retained in Halifax and Moutreal after orders had been seat for their return to kegland—the Europa's collision was announced to anxious men and women anticipating her arrival—the news china's submission was heard in New York within nine hours after England had received it. These are now facts—which in August, 1857, would have been dissipated as wild scientific dreams. squired for Copyling Purposes.

Mitchell's Patent Me Brass Founders & Steam Fitters, would have been dissipated as wild scientific dreams.

**Every hour after the demonstration of such knowledge, which is wasted by the absence of its enjoyment in a practical form, is, in the present concentrated state of our system of existence, a robbery of so much knowledge, so much human intercourse, and so much change of permanent peace and commercial grandeur from the two great branches of the Anglo-Saxon confraternix.

This waste, however, would not seem likely to occur after the fact announced by the Atlantic Tolegraph Company, which we are glad to notice as a great feature in its development—wo mean the offer which they appear to have received from contrators, not only to make and lay the cable, but to work it after it has been all at a risk to themselves, which a year ago would have been thought a mad undertaking, but which we are now informed is likely to meet with severe competition.
